PEACEFUL END COMES TO JUDGE HARTWELL

SEC. KNOX TO VISIT HILO

Distinguished Diplomat Leaves for Orient—Plans Stay Here on Return

Amid the thunder of nineteen guns, the salute accorded his rank, with eight side boys manning the gangway and drums sounding the ruffles prescribed by the regulations, Secretary of State Knox boarded the cruiser Maryland at 1:30 o'clock today, to resume his trip to Japan, where he goes as the representative of the United States at the funeral of the late emperor.

Secretary Knox was half an hour late in reaching the vessel and when he arrived found the consular corps drawn up in attendance to bid him bon voyage. Just before the steamer sailed, Secretary Knox and the Acting Japanese Consul Mori engaged in earnest conversation for several minutes.

The diplomat was accompanied to the wharf by Governor Peary, Secretary of State Mott-Smith and by other officials and those who were numbered among the guests at the Country Club luncheon.

The volcano of Kilauea is the magnet that will first attract Secretary Knox when he again draws near American soil. The head of the State Department has been so much about Hawaii's lake of living fire that he has decided to make Hilo the first port of call on his way home from Japan, and shortly after the first of October he expects to view the volcano.

After a few days at Hilo, the Maryland will sail for Honolulu with the Knox party, and the length of their stay here is very indefinite, depending on a number of contingencies. One thing is certain, and that is that the secretary will give Honolulu just as much time as he can conscientiously steal from the work that will be piling up for him in Washington during his absence.

Would Visit Pearl Harbor.

"I have seen enough of Honolulu to whet my appetite for more," said Secretary Knox this morning at the Moana Hotel. "I regret that our

BILL JAMMED THROUGH OVER WARM PROTEST

Majority of Board of Supervisors Pushed Pet Measure Through as Law

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PRESIDENT IS FLOUTED

A Strong Letter Protesting Against "Municipal Record" Bill Is Disregarded

Over the formal and written protest of President E. F. Bishop of the Chamber of Commerce and James A. Kennedy, trustee, the board of supervisors at a meeting held today noon, passed on final reading the ordinance creating a special clerk and adding the salary to the city payroll.

Messrs. Kennedy and Bishop made their protest as the legislative committee of the Chamber of Commerce having in charge the work of H. Gooding Field, when he made his report on the city and county finances.

James Wakefield, from the Merchants' Association, also offered oral objection to the ordinance which will increase the city and county overhead charges to the amount of several thousand dollars a year.

"I would suggest that the city supervisors defer action in this matter and let it be taken up by an incoming board," said Mr. Wakefield. He took the stand that the time was too short for the successful carrying out of the provisions of the ordinance.

The Chamber of Commerce letter to the board, which was read at the meeting held this noon, is as follows:

August 30, 1912.

To the Honorable Mayor and Board of Supervisors, City and County of Honolulu.

Gentlemen:—The undersigned were the legislative committee of the Chamber of Commerce, having in charge the work of Mr. H. Gooding Field, at the time he made his report on the administration and finances of the City and County of Honolulu. It will be recalled that Mr. Field's report showed a very large percentage of the income of the city expended for what are termed "overhead expenses"; in other words, the major portion of the taxpayers' money is spent for the organization of the city and county government, leaving only a small portion for public improvements. Salaries are a very large item in this so-called "overhead expense."

It has come to our attention that

Venerable Jurist Dies At His Home At 8 o'clock This Morning

Flags Half-Masted, Courts Adjourn and City Mourns Former Chief Justice

Succumbing to an illness of but a few days in duration, General Alfred S. Hartwell, who won his title heroically on a battlefield of the Civil War, died at 8 o'clock this morning at his home, Judd and Liliha streets. Death was due to heart weakness, together with a complication of diseases. He was 76 years old.

General Hartwell had a long and honorable public career, serving Hawaii in exalted offices through the monarchy, the Republic and since annexation.

He came to the Islands shortly after the close of the Civil War, during which he had been breveted brigadier general for "gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Honey Hill, S. C.," in which action he was wounded four times. He had just concluded his law studies at Harvard and was preparing to practice in Boston when he received the appointment of First Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands. This was in 1868 and from that time General Hartwell has been prominent in affairs of the Islands, serving as Attorney General in King Kalakaua's cabinet and resigning in 1911 as Chief Justice.

The death of General Hartwell was not entirely unexpected, as his family has been aware for some time that his health was failing, warned by several previous attacks which were serious but of short duration.

When the attack which proved fatal occurred four days ago, the physicians in attendance saw that there was little hope and on their advice the steamer Claudine was ordered to bring two daughters of General Hartwell, living on Hawaii, to his bedside. The Claudine arrived yesterday with Mrs. Ollie Sorenson and Mrs. A. W. Carter and these with another daughter, Mrs. A. F. Judd, were present when the end came.

Children Present.

Mrs. A. W. Carter, Mrs. Ollie Sorenson and Mrs. A. F. Judd were the only children present when the end came. Of the living children, Charles Hartwell, the only son, lives in Boston. Mrs. Mabel Hartwell lives in Chesnutville, a suburb of Boston, and Miss Bernice and Dorothy Hartwell, two other daughters are in San Francisco. Another daughter, Miss Charlotte Lee Hartwell died some years ago. Mrs. Hartwell has been dead for a number of years.

General Hartwell was perfectly aware of his condition and was conscious to the end. His last wish as expressed to his daughters was that the funeral services be as simple as possible.

Born in Massachusetts.

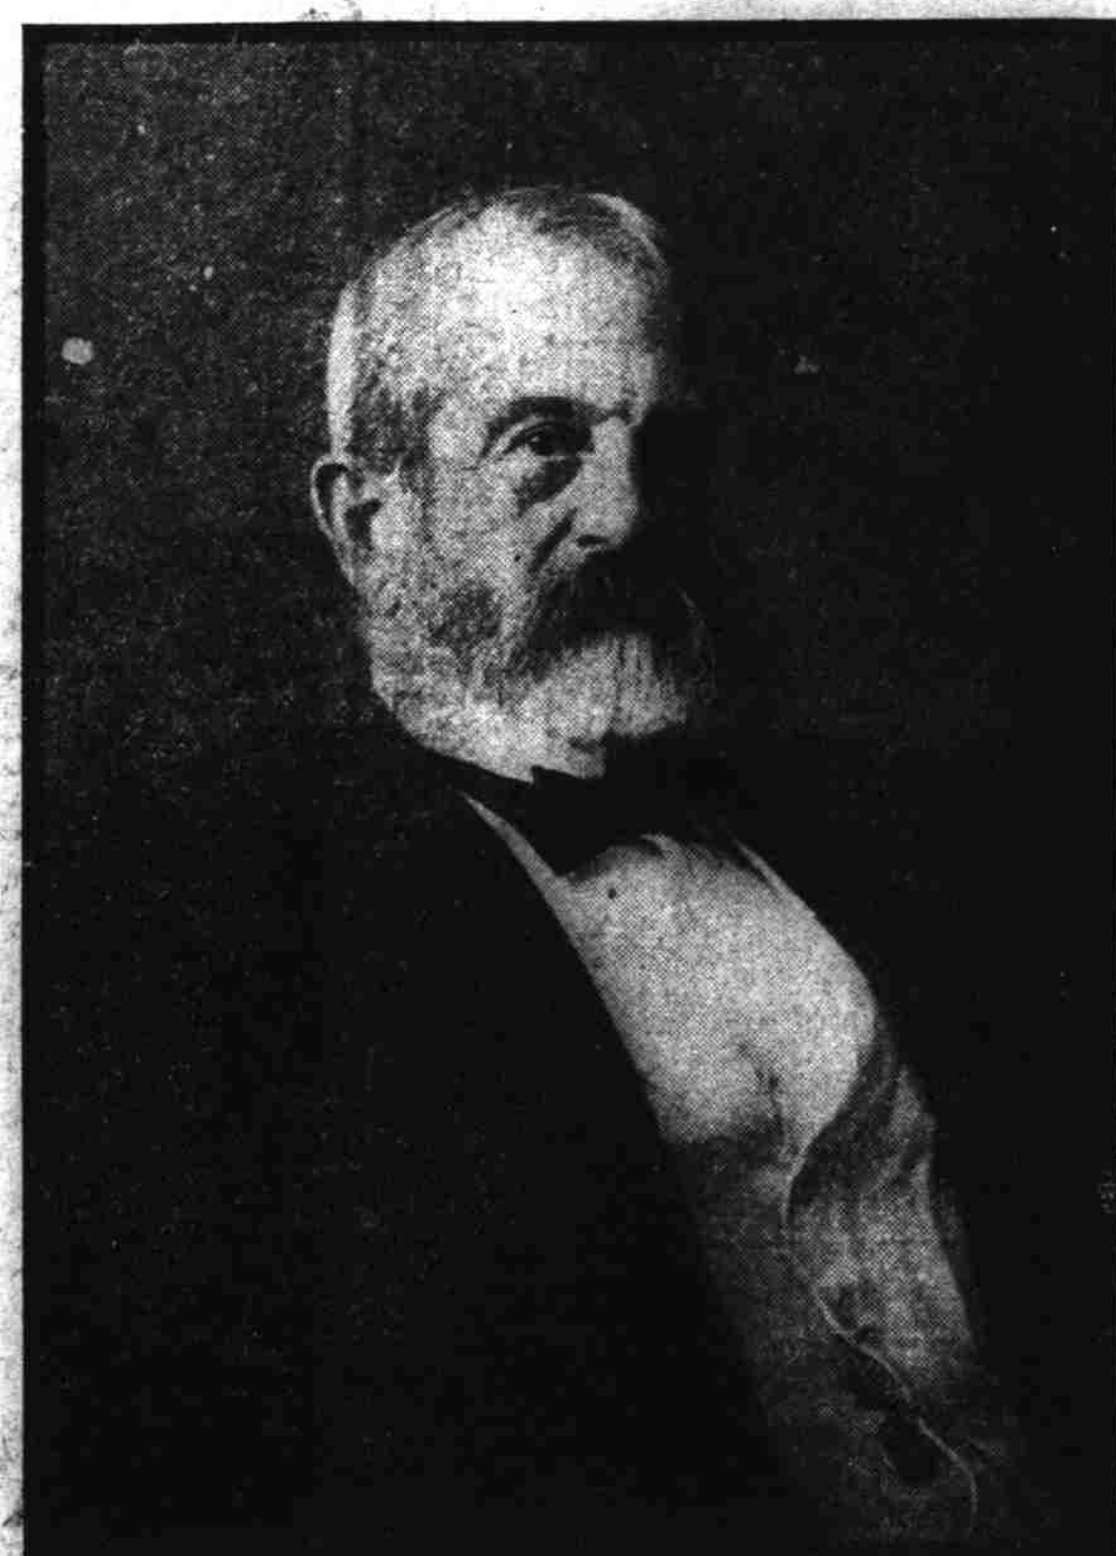

Alfred S. Hartwell was born at West Dedham, Mass. 76 years ago, removed, in infancy, to South Natick, Mass., was graduated at Harvard College, in the class of 1858, then became a tutor in the Washington University, St. Louis, where, at the breaking out of the war, he enlisted in a Missouri three months' regiment under Gen. Lyon.

Returning to Boston, he entered Harvard Law School, which he left in 1862, to enlist again in the Union Army, this time in the 44th Regiment Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, in which he was a first Lieutenant. Afterwards successively promoted Captain, Colonel, Major and Lieutenant Colonel, he served in the 54th Mass. Col. Infy. and, February, 1874, when he took the November 30, 1864, was breveted place of Attorney-General in Kalakaua's cabinet, for Kaua's first cabinet—a place which in "gallant and meritorious services at a few months he resigned for private the battle of Honey Hill, S. C." in law practice, but served a year and which action he was wounded four times, and had his horse shot under him, while leading a brigade of colored troops in a charge upon the Confederate works.

Leaves Law School.

After the Civil War, completed lawing up a healthy sentiment on public studies, and took degree of Bachelor of Laws at the Harvard Law School. After practicing law for a year or two he was appointed Associate Justice in Boston, received the appointment of the Supreme Court of Hawaii in 1864, and Chief Justice in 1907, and in July, 1908, "this brought him

GEN. A. S. HARTWELL
Whose long and useful career has been ended by death.

BAR WILL HONOR JURIST'S MEMORY.

Honor to the memory of Judge Hartwell will be paid by the Hawaiian Bar Association at a public ceremony to be held probably in the Senate chamber, Executive building, next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

This was announced this morning by Frank E. Thompson, president of the association, who was informed early of the death of the venerable jurist and who immediately began arrangements on behalf of the attorneys.

Mr. Thompson appeared before the circuit courts during the morning and moved that they adjourn out of respect to Judge Hartwell, and the courts thereupon adjourned. U. S. District Attorney Robert W. Breckons appeared before Federal Judge Clemons with a similar motion, and Judge Clemons adjourned the Federal Court for the day. The Supreme Court is not in session today.

On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the Supreme Court will convene and a memorial resolution will be presented by the Hawaiian Bar Association. It is suggested that instead of using the present Supreme Court-room, which is somewhat small, the meeting be held in the Senate chamber, and this will probably be done. President Thompson said this morning that the memorial ceremonies will be open to the public.

LABORERS WHO WENT TO COAST NOW IMPOVERISHED, WOULD RETURN

Portuguese and Spanish immigrants who came from Hawaii and then, growing dissatisfied, have jumped to the mainland, are in such straits over there for lack of employment that they are now anxious to return. If the Territorial Board of Immigration wishes to get several hundreds of them back to Hawaii, it can do so by paying their passage money here from the coast.

Such is the report brought from San Francisco, Los Angeles and other Coast cities by M. A. Silva, former agent of the Territorial Board, who has resigned to enter private business. Mr. Silva went to the coast recently and while there made an investigation into the condition of European immigrants from Hawaii. "Just now, while the fruit picking is taking a lot of people, most of the Portuguese and Spanish who came from Hawaii are employed," said Mr. Silva yesterday. "However, many have no steady employment and after the fruit season is over, will be in some need. If the board, about November 1, would offer to bring them to Hawaii, I feel certain they would be glad to come. They are anxious to return, but have no available means for passage money."

Meanwhile, the exodus of immigrants brought here continues, and many European laborers said to have come on the last two immigrant ships are taking passage to the Coast, lured by stories of "easy money" to be made there. Once on the coast, their dreams are dissipated, but then they have no money to come back to Hawaii, where they are sure of employment.

"DOG QUARANTINES" FIGURE IN WILL YOUNG COURT MARTIAL

Dr. Norgaard to Testify as to Conduct of Station by the Veterinarian on Trial

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The second day's proceedings of the court martial sitting in the case of Veterinarian L. E. Will Young, were largely devoted to the examination of Dental Surgeon George G. Graham from Fort Shafter.

Dr. Graham, it appeared, had been among the guests at the bridge party in the Barracks some months ago and had received the impression while there that Dr. Will Young had written the professional article that has been so frequently referred to in the proceedings.

Graham's memory of the events was not clear and he declined to testify positively that the accused had definitely claimed the authorship, confining himself to such expressions as "My impression was that he said it," or "I do not recall any exact expressions used but I formed the opinion in general."

Other witnesses were Captain Harris of the Second Infantry and Captain Hand of the Field Artillery. Their testimony was as to the fact that certain orders had been issued at this post and had been duly received by Dr. Will Young. These were the orders that the accused was charged with having failed to obey at various specified times. Dr. Vans Arnew was also on the stand again and his various references to "dog quarantine stations," "dog corrals," etc., occasioned furtive smiles to

COL. ROGERS TO COMMAND FIRST INFANTRY

[Special Star-Bulletin Acrogram]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The Second Infantry has received with greatest regret the orders detaching Colonel James S. Rogers from their midst. Colonel Rogers will, however, not change station from Schofield Barracks, as his orders carry him to the First Infantry, also stationed here.

The Colonel served in the First as its Lieutenant Colonel for a number of years and both he and Mrs. Rogers are very popular in that Regiment. They are now on an extended leave and are not expected to rejoin before the November transport.

Colonel Francis H. French has arrived at the post and has taken over the command of the Second Infantry. He will occupy the quarters vacated by Colonel Mansfield. Mrs. French will remain in Honolulu until the quarters are put in readiness.

PACIFIC MAIL NOT TO BUILD FLEET PLANNED

According to a dispatch from New York, R. P. Schwerin, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Mail, declares the company will not build the four $2,000,000 steamships it contemplated establishing with the opening of the Panama Canal.

Under the bill just adopted by Congress, the ships could not be operated if built, according to Schwerin, and American shipyards will not get some $12,000,000 worth of contracts for which bids had been tendered.

A line of big passenger steamships from New York to the Orient via the Panama Canal, American built and American owned, is thus thrown into the remote future. As the bill left the committee and as it was printed after five months of hearing, Schwerin says, it permitted new ships to be operated, and the intention was to build four steamships, the biggest ever turned out in American yards.

Schwerin said: "It is no use to build the ships, and we have abandoned the project. It was not easy to raise the $12,000,000 we had got together, and it was work wasted."
